THE OFFICIAL LOCH NESS MONSTER EXHIBITION CENTRE

A unique visitor attraction in Scotland's Great Glen.

This is the home of the authoritative exhibition on the mysterious phenomenon of Loch Ness, produced in collaboration with the current research groups.

Centred upon a walk through a 40 minute audio visual presentation, the exhibition displays much of the actual equipment used in the exploration of Loch Ness.

The Centre also offers a selection of shops, craft demonstrations, a restaurant and carvery, lounge bar, coffee shop and well appointed hotel.

As a bonus, you can introduce the children to a life size "Nessie" monster in our outdoor Lochan. There are also disabled facilities, ample free parking space for cars and a separate coach park.

This exciting experience is a large multi media presentation which leads you through themed areas covering the whole subject from the pre-history of Scotland, exploring the cultural roots of the story in highland folklore and into the present controversy with all the phases of investigation and exploration that this has entailed.

The forty minute audio guided presentation orchestrates music, videos, photographs, historical tableaux, special effects and many authentic relics of the search.

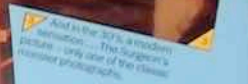

The adventure begins 500 million years ago as prehistoric Scotland takes shape and continental drift pushes the landmass 5,000 miles northwards. Loch Ness emerges 220 metres deep.

In 1982, sonar patrol operators record forty contacts which are stranger than any known native species of fish. And in 1987, the Operation Deepscan boat fails not to garden them.

Optimized camera surveillance in the 1960s produces evidence for and against

And as the 30's, a modern version... The Surgeon's picture - only one of the classic number photographs.

The murky waters make underwater observation difficult. The researchers turn to seagrass and pinpoint possible food sources for the moray. They also observed 25 manta sharks per hour.

5. We have learned that surface waves are produced only at the surface of the Earth. Can you think of any other places where surface waves might be produced?
